Welcome to Haddington

This charming little town which sits on a bend of the river Tyne, surrounded by some of the most fertile land in the country, is the county town of 'the Garden of Scotland'

Situated between stunning beaches, dramatic coastline and the beautiful Lammermuir Hills, Haddington is also surprisingly only 15 miles from Edinburgh.

With a busy high street, and a tradition of offering great service and value for money, Haddington's independent shops and businesses really add a personal touch that simply isn't found at any out of town developments.

The Haddington Business Association exists to promote and represent local businesses by improving and securing the commercial interests of Haddington. We also promote partnership working with East Lothian Council and other local organisations.

This guide to Haddington and its shops and businesses aims to give you a taste of what you'll find on a trip to our beautiful town. Enjoy!

We'd like to let you into a little secret. The beautiful and ancient market town of Haddington is a hidden gem which lies at the heart of the picturesque county of East Lothian and it's a great place to visit...

The perfect place for a day out...

Haddington is a real hidden gem and there's a wealth of things to do and see, in and around the town.

Scotland's National Museum of Flight is only 3 miles away. It's the home of Concorde and is a great place to learn about our nation's aviation history. Don't miss the famous Air Show, a great family spectacle, near the end of July!

The Lennoxlove Book Festival is a recent highlight of Haddington's visitor calendar. Set in the grounds of Lennoxlove Estate, a beautiful country house on the outskirts of Haddington, the Book Festival is already one of the biggest country house weekends ever organised. Check out the festival programme which is published in September.

The Haddington Agricultural Show in July is another fantastic day out for all the family. Set in farmland just outside the town, this fine agricultural show has animals on display, trade stands, local produce, crafts and great children's entertainment.

On the subject of Haddington's agricultural roots, the monthly farmers' market is another great way to sample the very best produce the county has to offer. It runs the last Saturday of every month. Stalls set up early.

Probably the most eagerly anticipated highlight of the event calendar must be the Haddington Festival, which runs from the end of May and into June. Not just a single event, but a whole series of events, the famous Haddington Festival is a great celebration of what our town has to offer.

And not forgetting – some great golf can be played in the town.

Haddington Golf Club is a long established parkland course set in 130 acres within the peaceful surroundings of a beautiful former country estate, along the banks of the river Tyne.

The river Tyne also offers excellent bait and fly-fishing for brown trout, with permits available from JS Main & Son in Haddington. Other features along the Tyne well worth a visit are Hailes and Crichton Castles and the Poldrate Mill in Haddington. Look out for kingfisher, otter, herons, moorhens, swans and ducks along the way.

St Mary's Pleasance, the beautiful garden of Haddington House is another of our hidden gems. Planted with trees and plants known to have been in cultivation in Scotland when the house was built, it contains a 'mount' and sunken garden, both period features of a 17th century garden. Other features include the beautiful 'Laburnum Walk' and a charming wildflower meadow.

The future holds some exciting new attractions too.

The John Gray Centre, currently in construction, is due to be open in 2012 and will be an exciting new heritage and library venue for East Lothian. It will have a brand new public archive area, where you can explore East Lothian's archives at leisure.

There's so much more about our town than we can tell you about here, but the best way to find out for yourself is to pay us a visit. We look forward to seeing you!
